Ethics in Pretrial Services and Offender Manipulation of Staff

This training will challenge assumptions about ethics and confront the problems that "situational ethics" causes staff working in the pretrial services field. It will stress the importance of a high ethical standard by staff when working with clients. The training will present specific practical tools for staff to use to maintain ethical behavior to meet the mission of their organization. There will be some discussion about how Pretrial clients can manipulate staff and how avoid ethical dilemmas.
